Your request for data on N.J. coppers leads me to try to help you on items included in your Pennywise article of March 15, 1999.

My data shows: that in a 1932 Mehl inventory of the Waldo Newcomer Collection item 2947 is a N.J. date below plow beam being Lot # 370 of Parmalee and from J.L. Goodenough of Oswego NY. Only other known piece was owned by Hillyer Ryder of Carmel, NY, UNC. This was sold to Garrett privately.

Item 2946 Maris 8-F from Parmalee, VF sold to Garrett privately.

I probably have some other information on pedigrees of other scarce N.J. pieces if you need it.

I hope I have been helpful,

Eric P. Newman

Hi Eric,
I wasn't sure about the congressman... I thought it very possible that you would know your local congressman and that he might be at a party such as yours. But I don't put any special credence on a document just because a politician's name is on it. I'm sure there must be some good politicians out there somewhere. How is Evelyn doing? My brief talk with her revealed a kind compassionate person. Beside coin collecting keeping us young, a good wife contributes greatly too. If this logic is sound, then I also have a good chance of a long happy life too.

Dear Ray:
Thank you for the suggestions as to the birthday book signing. I will only sign one and will make the words as appealing as I can. The congressman crack was supposed to be a joke as a means of assuring that its certifying of its authenticity is false. Perhaps you find political representatives more believable.
You are right that numismatics keeps you healthy and out of trouble so you do not have to rely on a flip of a coin as to events. . Eric.

Signing two... Last year, there were two specially bound catalogs made available for the auction. The first was bid and the bidder was given the option to purchase the second at the same price or open the second for bidding to the public again. This gives someone of means the opportunity to purchase one for themselves and another to donate to a library (ANS?) So if you would like to sign a second on your birthday, that would be wonderful too. If a Congressman is at your party (I'm assuming your family is throwing a big party), it would be fun if he certified that the signature was yours.
